Hi-Way Battle Monday

With unprecedented unanimity, Carmel goes before the Monterey County Planning Commission Monday to protest the State Highway Department's plan to develop Highway No. 1 into a divided freeway from Monterey's south city limits to Carmel River Bridge.

Campaign plans for presenting Carmel's case at the public hearing, set for 2:00 o'clock in supervisors' chambers in Salinas, were mapped out at Wednesday afternoon's meeting of the Carmel Planning Commission.

City Attorney Tom Perry will present the reasons for Carmel's objections.

He will call upon Mayor Horace Lyon, two members of the Carmel Planning Commission (Mrs. Talbert Josselyn and Mrs. Gladys Kiplinger) and a representative of the Carmel Business Association, of Carmel Unincorporated, of the Community Hospital Board, of Carmel Highlands Association, of Lower Carmel Valley, and of the Carmel Unified School Board for expressions of sentiments on the proposed freeway.

In the past week all the above organizations have gone on record supporting the Carmel Planning Commission in their disapproval of the freeway plans.

In addition, individual citizens throughout the community expressed their indignation over the state highway proposals, and home owners alone are prepared to take court action if the freeway project is not abandoned by the state.

Carmel City Council holds a special meeting tonight to approve officially the Carmel Planning Commission's "order of presentation" outlined above.

Perry's presentation will cover the following points: The freeway would separate Carmel from one of its fast-growing residential areas; it would cut the high school off from the city; it would lead to commercialization of a beautiful and carefully planned residential area; it would funnel traffic down two narrow streets into Carmel, Ocean and Carpenter; it would shut off direct access to the Community Hospital slowing emergency ambulance service. Most important of all, it would destroy the scenic beauty of the approach to Carmel. Carmel doesn't want it and the need for it is not evident. An alternate route for a freeway, should one be necessary in the future, has been suggested and deserves consideration.

Cortez Trial Set For July 14 In Superior Court

Denny Cortez, charged with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Leslie Wilson in the latter's Carmel home on June 15, was arraigned in superior court Monday.

Trial date has been set for July 14 in Salinas. Judge Anthony Brazil will hear the case. Attorney for the defense will be John H. Redhead.

The defense has entered a plea (Continued on Page Four)

Planning Commission Gives Council Items For Serious Thought

Carmel Planning Commission, meeting Wednesday, recommended that the city council provide for daily street cleaning to mop up after the summer tourists. The one hour, twice a week swipe, given by the whole street department crew results in 36 man-hours of work and the streets are still dirty. One man on the job throughout the day, every work day would result in 40-man hours and might stem the tide of litter.

Commission requested the council for an appropriation to provide rest benches along the Carmel streets for pedestrians. Benches can be obtained for $10 apiece and the committee would like to install six for a starter to see what happens.

Also asked of the council was an appropriation of $500 to engage Tom Church, landscape architect, to plan the lower two beach blocks on Ocean Avenue.

WORLD AFFAIRS PROGRAM
Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove Kiwanis clubs will present, under the sponsorship of the World Affairs Council, a talk by Kenneth Hannsen of Washington, D.C., deputy director of the Mutual Security Agency of which Harold Stassen is the administrator.

Hannsen's lecture will deal with East-West Trade, describing the machinery for insuring the flow of strategic materials from the west to the east, and will take place at a luncheon meeting on July 2 at La Playa Hotel, beginning at 12:00 o'clock noon.

Out of the Fog

By MILTON MAYER

If there is one thing that I can not abide—and there is—it is immorality.

Immorality is the cause of Communism and many other evils, not too numerous but too vulgar to mention.

It is also the greatest single enemy of morality.

I am, therefore, happy to note that the California Legislature, in the great session just ended, has forbidden school teachers to be immoral.

The old law which forbade gross immorality—on pain of immediate dismissal, i.e., slow death by starvation—was amended by the elimination of the word "gross". From now on, any old kind of immorality, gross or not, is forbidden to school teachers.

This is a step forward, one of the longest steps forward in the history of this forward-stepping Golden State.

If you share my view—and don't stand there bare-faced and tell us you don't—you will express your gratitude to your legislator. If you don't have one, get one. Everybody should have a legislator, and they are less expensive than you think.

Senator Fred Kradt (R., San Diego) was the author of the measure. Nearly everybody voted for it, some twice.

Senator Kradt should be congratulated.

If nobody else will congratulate him, I will. Congratulations, Senator Kradt.

San Diego should be proud. If it isn't, it ought to be ashamed of itself. Shame, San Diego.

They're going to build a freeway, A high-speed freeway, All the way down to the artichoke patch!

There won't be any leeway On the new speed freeway For the gentle-footed idler with a view to watch—

For the cars will come in multitudes

Increasing evermore, Rushing longer without stopping Than they ever did before Past the ruined, murdered landscape,

Past the cut-backs and the fills, The massacre of oak-trees and the death of little hills,

On our million-dollar speedway sliced across the canyon wall That isn't going anywhere, Not anywhere at all!

GOOD SOFTBALL FARE AT SUNSET FIELD TONIGHT

A good brand of A class softball will be dished up for softball filberts tonight at Sunset Field as the Pine Cone nine hosts the Cal-Van team at 7:00 o'clock, and the Kips Food Center team clashes with the Monterey Baptists at 8:15. The Cal-Van-Pine Cone tussle should be a nip-and-tuck affair, with the Pine Cone holding a slight edge because of superior hurling. Jim Morton, lanky fireball artist, will serve them up for the Coners while Red Hartsock, a seasoned campaigner in the PG softball league, will test the Pine Cone hitters. Joe Nicholson's Pine Cone aggregation looked like money in the bank last Monday night, disposing of the hustling Collegians in a Carmel City League game. Stacked with good power in the bats of Don Canham, Lee Laugenous, Bill Daniels, and Gene Vandervort, the Coners should be a good match for any of the class A clubs.

An old Carmel favorite, Jay Huffman, sparks the Monterey Baptist nine which is a newcomer to the Carmel City League. Jay's gang plays a fast brand of ball and hold wins over some of the good Peninsula teams this season. Kips Food Center boasts one of the top pitchers in the league in Johnny DeAmaral, who is pitching better than ever before. The husky right-hander has developed pinpoint control to go with a good swift one and a tantalizing change of pace.

POLICE CLUB FIREMEN IN ADULT LEAGUE OPENER

Chief Clyde Klaumann's Police softball gang took up where they left off last season in the Adult League opener last Wednesday night, shellacking the 1952 championship Fire Department team, 16 to 4. At the end of the season last summer the Police appeared to be the power of the league and they showed that same power Wednesday night. It will take a good club to whip the law-enforcers this season.

Jim Kelsey, veteran Police hurler, had the Yankees of the Adult League at his mercy for the complete seven innings, allowing only nine scattered hits. By Pryor and Bud Steenerson swung the big sticks for the Cops, each collecting three blows. Pitcher Kelsey hit the longest ball of the evening, depositing one of John Huddleson's fast balls well up on the school-house ramp. Huddleson, Cates, and Montgomery topped the hose-men in the hitting department, pitcher Huddleson helping himself to a nifty three for four with Cates and Montgomery hitting solid two for fours.

Adult League action next week finds the Carmel Firemen testing the Lions Club on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, and the Thursday night doubleheader featuring the Carmel Pros against the Carmel Police at 7 o'clock and Valley Firemen making their debut against Wilder & Jones at 8:15. The two surprise teams of the league could be the Carmel Valley Firemen sparked by Pete Daniels, Jim Muscutt, Clyde Jennings, and Hugh Erwin. The Valley hose-men know their way around a softball diamond and are hankering for a chance to show the city players how the game should be played. Howard Timbers rates the Carmel Pros on a par with the championship Carmel Firemen team and points to such talent as Glenn Leidig, Bud Foster, Warren Edwards, Charley Nelson, Orville Rogers, Art Holman, Lloyd Miller, and Pete Glod to back up the high hopes for the Pros.

PINE CONE WINS 8-3 VICTORY OVER COLLEGIANS

Paced by Don Canham's booming home run into deep center field, the Carmel Pine Cone softball crew got off to an auspicious start in the Carmel City League opening last Monday night. Jim Morton pitched a tight three-hitter to have complete game control throughout the contest. Good bat support from Bill Daniels, Jim Hare, and Canham made the going rather easy for the talented Pine Cone chucker.

The Collegians, made up of Language School students who live in Carmel, fielded a good ball club and will win a fair share of their games in the City League. Pitcher Conklin scattered eight hits in his seven-inning stint on the mound and could have escaped with a closer score had his support not bogged down in the tight spots. A left-handed catcher with a rifle arm commanded the respect of the Pine Cone base-runners with his bore-sighted pegs to the sacks.

INTERNATIONAL MERCURY REGATTA FINALS TODAY

With four days of racing in well-nigh perfect sailing weather, the International Mercury Regatta goes into the finals today of the five-day yachting event at Stillwater Cove in Pebble Beach.

Twenty-four skippers from clubs all over California, as well as one entry from Hawaii, qualified to enter the regatta, which began Monday afternoon. In addition, scores of yachting fans from all over the country have gathered at Pebble Beach to witness the sailing and participate in the numerous social events associated with it.

Top overall scorer at the end of the third race was Rob Goestel of Merced, No. 20, Rhythm; Goestel placed third in Wednesday's sailing. First place Wednesday went to A. B. Smith of Los Angeles in No. 197, Mischief, putting him in overall fifth position; second was Kent Clark of Carmel, No. 303, Querida, in tying position for third overall.

Stillwater Cove Yacht Club members who are participating in the races are Jon Konigshofer in Fran; Kent Clark in Querida; William Chase in Starlight; Matthew Jenkins in First Today; George Gann in Black Watch; and Jack Geisen in Renegade.

Also racing are entries from Fresno, Newport Beach, Sausalito, Los Angeles, Merced, and Hawaii. Kent Clark is Commodore of the local fleet, which is acting as host to the visiting skippers and their crews. Jack Geisen is vice-commodore, Stuart Haldorn, rear commodore, Matt Jenkins, secretary-treasurer, and Tim Condon, port captain.

Ralph Buchan is serving as chairman of the Regatta committee, assisted by J. W. Clark, G. B. Henderson, Capt. William Donnelly and James Glaser. Entertainment committee includes Jon Konigshofer, Colden Whitman and Camilla Canfield. George Lane of Los Angeles, who serves as official starter for the Trans-Pacific Honolulu race, is officiating in the same capacity for the Mercury races.

Awards to the winning skippers will be made this evening at the Beach Club immediately following the fifth and final race.

CIRCLING THE BASES
Overconfidence has been the downfall of many great teams and athletes. Last Saturday afternoon the Fort Ord Warriors were nearly nipped by the overconfidence bug as the Camp Roberts nine took advantage of wild Warrior pitching to build up a six-run lead which nearly held up for the win. However, the power-packed Warriors pulled the game out of the (Continued on Page Thirteen)

Stockton Chorale To Present July 4 Concert At Wayfarer

Ten solo voices will be heard in the concert of the new choral ensemble, The Stockton Chorale, which will present a concert on Saturday evening, July 4 at 8:00 o'clock in the Church of the Wayfarer.

Directed by Arthur J. Holton, chairman of music at Stockton College, and a well-known conductor of festival choruses and organizations, the ensemble will present a program including Randall Thompson's Peaceable Kingdom and music from Kurt Weill's Lost in the Stars.

There will be no admission charge but offering will be received.

VALLEY COLUMN

Judging from the knocked-out hilarity emanating from the Barn Theatre these rehearsal nights, the cast of the forthcoming revue appears to be hugely entertained by the material in preparation for Up In Carmel Valley.

This week, producers By and Ruth Ford announced a few more of the ingredients in the new concoction. One number will be a sly takeoff on art galleries entitled, Still Life Can eB Beautiful, featuring Ruth McElroy and Dan Graham. Another will be an as-tringent comment on the Valley's struggle over its trees called Verga Robles, and concerning Tom Verga's frustrated desire to remove an oak; Irene Baldwin is responsible for this satiric opus.

Girls there will be, of course; some of the cuties who'll prance and prate in various numbers are Zizi Coyne, Anne Fry, Mary Jane Wolter, Pamela Beales, Carol Arnett, Renee Wurzmahn, Connie Chedester and Sidney Tice.

The show will be unveiled July 9, and will continue for three more nights. Tickets are available at the Leo Tanous real estate office in Carmel.

On Sunday afternoon, preceding the final performance of the show, a barbecue for cast and friends will be held at Holman's Guest Ranch. Vistor Silva and Pat Berta are in charge of preparations for this affair.

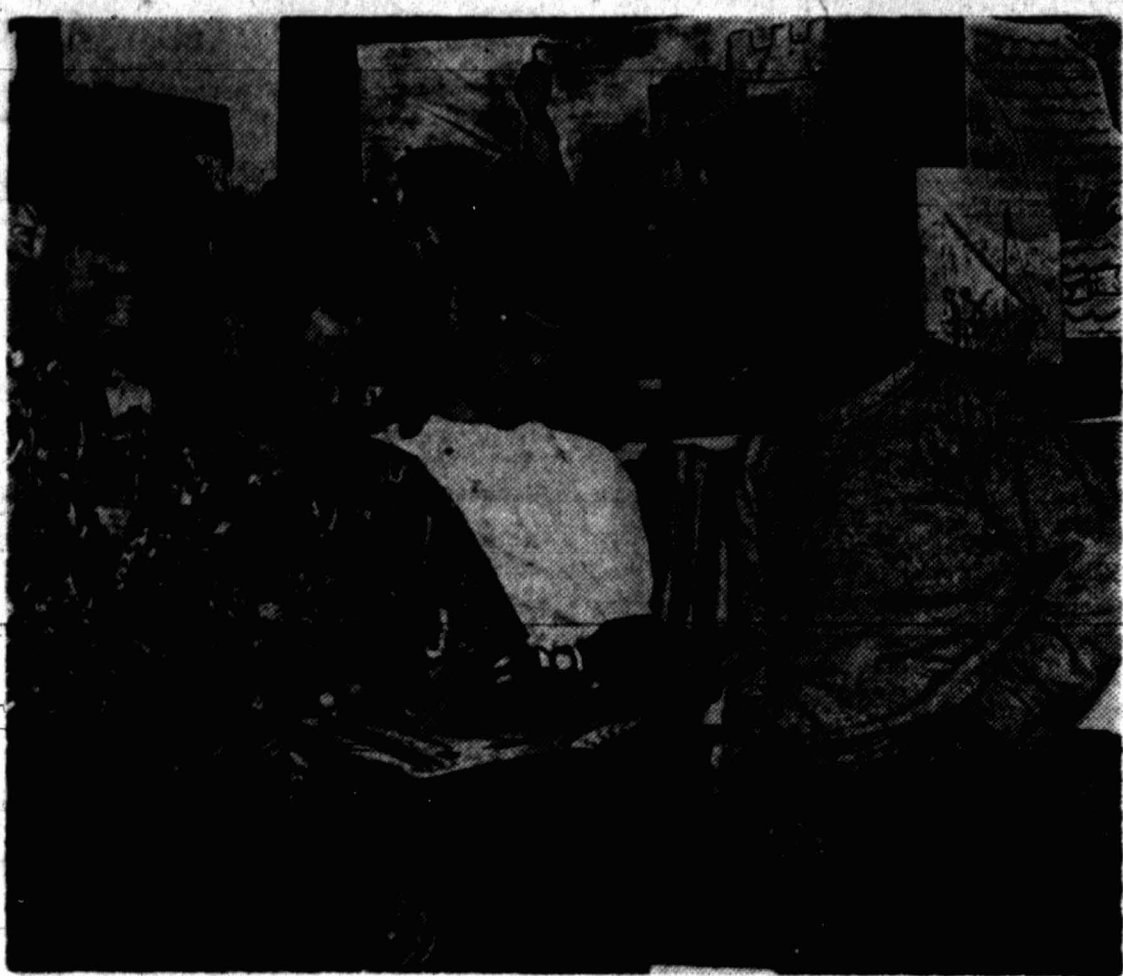

S. F. B. Morse's Valley retreat, River Ranch, is being occupied by Mr. Morse's sister, Mrs. Thomas H. Christian, and her daughter Jane, who make their home in Tucson. The Morses will be returning from their trip abroad around July 1.

Within the past fortnight, the Valley population has been augmented by three new additions. First of the new arrivals was Juliana Maria Sbarra, the new daughter born June 13 to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sbarra.

Last Wednesday, the 18th, the Vernon Gunkels proudly welcomed their first son, Gary Owen. Small Gary is also the first Gunkel to be born in California; their eldest daughter, Bonnie Joan, was born in Texas ("and she looks a Texan, too," says her father); the second, Judy Yvonne, made her appearance in Kansas, and the baby girl, Jeanne Diane, can claim red Alabama earth as her native soil.

Then on Thursday, June 19, their second daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Muscutt. She has been named Barbara Christine; her older sister is Cynthia. Grandparents of the new baby are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Meyer of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. William Muscutt of Farm Center.

Along The Trails With The Rangers

POINT LOBOS RESERVE

BY KEN LEGG

Just off hand one would not think of much connection between a chickadee and a brush rabbit. We often associate the more obvious things with each other such as ticks and deer, quail and seeds, but many of the less known relationships among animals in the wild go unnoticed.

There may be more than one way in which the rabbits and chickadees serve one another but the rabbit grows good fur to line the chickadee nest I am sure, and probably before his fur went to make a bed for little chickadees his flesh was nourishment for an owl or other night prowler.

Last week I had two experiences with chickadees which gave me the rabbit relationship idea. First I looked into a nest where seven naked young were stretching their necks upward for food. Their wide, yellow-rimmed mouths, which scientists say are so ample so the parent can readily see where to put the food, reminded me of the painted mouths we used to see on minstrel men, and I immediately dubbed these one day old creatures "mush-mouths".

The most interesting thing about this scene was the home. All seven of these birds were in a depression hardly larger than a fifty cent piece and it was lined completely with rabbit fur. Whereas feather beds are good enough for some birds and others have no more than bare rocks, these entirely naked chickadees no doubt needed their fur-lined nest to keep them warm until feathers grew upon their bodies.

Last week I came upon the scene of a struggle in which a rabbit was the loser. Various unpalatable parts of his body were upon the ground at the east side of Rat Hill. As I watched, two chickadees that were nest making in a hollow tree farther up the slope flew down to the ground near me. One took a pinch of the fur and flew off toward the tree with its mate acting as convoy. Thus the rabbit-small bird relationship came to me.

Our species is the chestnut-backed chickadee. Throughout the winter it forms alliance with kinglets, vireos, and nuthatches and patrols its leafy beat for insects. At the approach of spring the flocks break up into pairs and for at least a month before nest building we see them pursuing and singing about the trees and shrubs.

We cannot say "such and such" a plant or animal is not useful until we ask all the wild creatures that live with "such and such", for

Out of the Fog . . .

Immorality should be forbidden to school teachers in every State in the Union, plus the District of Columbia and our outlying possessions.

The outlying possessions, in particular, are hotbeds of immorality. The only reason not much is heard about it is that they do not have many school teachers in the outlying possessions.

Some school teachers will protest.

They are immoral.

They should be dismissed, immediately.

The people of California have said that immorality must go. Go, immorality. Go, go, go.

Any school teacher who opens his or her mouth should be dismissed, immediately.

Do you want to come home at 4 A.M. and find your child thinking immoral thoughts about you? If you don't, clean up the schools, and you'll come home at 4 A.M. and find your child thinking moral thoughts about you.

Frills and fads and immorality must go. They have no place in the California schools.

Outside the schools, it's different.

We must protect the American home.

The best way to do it is in the American school.

People who say it should be done in the American home, instead of in the American school, are immoral. They are probably school teachers.

Everybody has known for a long time that the school teachers are immoral. Why, otherwise, would they be school teachers? There isn't any money in it, and who would put up with thirty or forty kids eight hours a day except for money?

It is the immorality that attracts them.

The people of California are the first to strike at the enemy, immorality, in the enemy's lair, the schools.

Among scores of Carmelites who enjoyed last week's Carmel Business Association dinner at Rancho Del Monte Country Club up Carmel Valley were Mr. and Mrs. Don Staniford, Sr., shown with Arnold Bradley, center, new owner of the popular resort-hotel.

School teachers who say that if teachers should be dismissed for immorality, bankers should, are red-herring draggers across the trail of public progress. Note the color of the herring.

Why should a banker be immoral? There is money in moral banking.

Now that immorality has been outlawed, watch the difference.

Morality will spread from the schools to the liquor industry, to the draw-poker centers, to the tenderloin and the marijuana groves and even to the churches.

The schools will be moral in Hollywood.

The children will be moral. Their parents will be moral, as a consequence. Everybody will be doing it.

School teachers used to get by with immorality in this state because the law forbade only gross immorality. When they got caught being immoral, they said immorality was all right because it was not forbidden. That's all finished now. No more immorality for them.

It's lucky when you live in California and you're not a school teacher.

People used to think that it would take the second coming of the Lord to put an end to immorality.

That's what people thought. I thought so myself.

People said, "We are all sinners."

I said so myself.

People said, "Pray that the free and unmerited grace of God will save you from sin. Forgive the school teacher's sin that you may yourself be forgiven."

I said so myself.

People prayed.

I prayed myself.

That's what people thought and said and did.

They didn't know Senator Kradt.

Would they like to?

I wouldn't.

Mrs. Annie Osborn, a Carmel resident for nearly 30 years, was found dead in her home on Dolores Street Tuesday. She was 74.

A native daughter, Mrs. Osborn was married to the late George Osborn, who died in 1942. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Anna Weeks, of Stockton.

Services will be held today in San Francisco, with inurnment at Cypress Lawn. Mission Mortuary in charge of local arrangements.

The Square Needle Here July 3-5

Samuel Taylor's comedy of Army life, The Square Needle, will be given a pre-Broadway showing at Sunset Auditorium on July 3, 4, and 5. The production, which features an outstanding local cast, will be under the direction of Helen Schoeni, formerly associate director of the Pasadena Playhouse.

The three performances of The Square Needle are being staged for the benefit of the local chapter of the American Cancer Fund.

JOIN FREEWAY PROTEST

At their meeting yesterday noon, Carmel Kiwanis Club joined Lions and other local service groups in unanimously voting to protest the freeway proposed by the State Highway Department for Highway 1. What's In The Stars For You

By Ruth Goddard Bixler

From June 22 until July 23, the sun is in the watery cardinal sign of Cancer whose symbol is the Crab, and whose ruler is the moon. One's moon or ascendant may be in this sign depending upon the day or time of birth. This is one of the most sensitive, intuitive and inspirational of all signs. Its key phrase is "I feel" and Cancerians should be careful with which adjectives they qualify this word.

Parents having children born under this sign should realize that these children are influenced far more by example than by precept. Do not try to fool them. They feel emotions and attitudes keenly, and if there is inharmony or contention in the home, they may become actually physically ill. The best thing you can possibly do for them is to provide a cheerful happy home, hallowed by love. They are so open to suggestion and so sensitive to criticism that you must continually watch to see that optimistic, positive, constructive attitudes prevail. If they are subjected to constant criticism, disapproval, or unpleasantness they are likely to retire like the crab, defensively deep within themselves, and to nurture seeds of resentment which may develop into complexes. On the other hand, they can easily be spoiled through too much adulation, and indulgence.

Cancer is the mother and home sign of the Zodiac. So people from this sign are home-loving with strong family ties, patriotic, hospitable, gracious hosts and hostesses, generous, sympathetic and understanding with their friends. They like some one to nurture and protect.

Such subjects as genealogy, heraldry, antiques, archeology are likely to intrigue them. They feel a kinship with the restless surging and billowing of the sea with its constant ebb and flow, and many moods under different weather conditions. The late William Ritschel of Carmel, one of the greatest of marine painters, was born under this sign, and his intuitive, talented wife Nora has her moon in this sign. Little wonder that they built a home so well suited to themselves on the edge of the sea.

An architect who has recently come to Carmel and who takes pleasure in designing homes for others is Francis Palpi, born under this sign. Gracious, charming and talented Marjorie Wurzmahn also claims this section of the Zodiac, as does the gentle, modest Lovera Thias, who in recent years has become a part of our village life.

Since 1949 and up to 1956 Uranus, the planet stimulating the unusual, originality and unexpected changes are and have been in this sign. Its influence in this period has been reflected in modernistic types of architecture and improvements of all kinds, in the modern home with its many gadgets and electrical devices.

The effects of Uranus will be better and more constructive from the middle of 1954 to the middle in 1955 when joined by the benefic Jupiter. Many doors of opportunity will then open to natives of this sign.

The energetic, aggressive and often violent Mars is now in the sign Cancer and will be through July. July 11 there is a partial eclipse of the sun in exact conjunction with the upsetting, explosive combination of Mars and Uranus which may be the impetus of some world shaking and dramatic happenings through the month. There is likely to be further experimentation with the atomic and hydro gas bombs. As Mercury goes retrograde at this time, travel and communication lines are likely to be affected.

All people and particularly those born under the cardinal signs of Aries, Cancer, Libra and Capricorn should be on their guard against reckless, impulsive or eccentric behaviors.

During the month of August the artistic harmonious Venus will be in Cancer, smoothing the pathway of life for these natives and adding to artistic and social interests. Many will experience the impact of vivid emotional experiences or crisis.

Notable people who have been born with the sun in Cancer are Mary Baker Eddy, Edward, Duke of Windsor, Calvin Coolidge, Nelson Eddy and Charles Laughton.

NOSEGAY FOR OFFICE STAFF

Auditor R. B. Dunlap of the State Board of Equalization checked sales tax records at the Carmel High School office recently and the school board received a letter this week from him saying, "In 20 years of our travels in this work we have never received more efficient service. Your filing system is excellent and the work thoroughly understood by your staff."

Staff handling sales tax records is Gladys Parks and Mrs. Ruth Vallon.

The Time Has Come

By Kippy Stuart

It is difficult for Eastern gardeners, who are transplanted to the Pacific coast, to comprehend the watering problem. In the East summer showers are the order of the day and the ground is kept reasonably moist. In our locality, by this time of year, the ground is bone dry for several feet below the surface, hence the sprinkling stunt does little good. Sprinkling is an abomination to me any way it is applied. The evaporation, as the stream hits the air, absorbs so much good water and here, water conservation is a must.

If the garden soil is properly equipped with humus, less water will be needed, and it depends upon how this water is applied whether or not your garden matures. All perennials should be planted in depressions at least four inches below the level of the ground. This allows for slow irrigation with an occasionally overhead to clean dust off the leaves. Sprinkling perennials does not insure sufficient water. The nozzle of the hose should be removed and a slow stream allowed to run into the depression at the base of plant. Just try this and you'll be surprised at the sudden jump your plants will make. Hedges make me cringe all over the Peninsula. Poor hedges. Gardeners plant their property line with fine growing shrubs then go away and forget them. Take a hoe and make a depression four inches deep at the roots, then let the hose run along the hedge. Have a heart, you've paid good monies for those shrubs, so be kind and give them water during the summer months.

The annual garden is something else again. Can you imagine anyone hitting a gentle petunia flat in the face with a hard stream of water? It is going on all around you with the results that rust and mildew take over and there go your petunias out the window. Take the nozzle off the hose again, lay the stream of slow water right in among the annuals until the water has penetrated at least several inches below the surface. Move the hose frequently until the entire surface is wet.

I am far from popular when I enter friends' gardens and am asked, "What's the matter with this gadget?" I can tell from far away what the matter is. I explain... water... water... water... I am met with dismay... "Why, we sprinkled only last night! I sprinkle every evening!" Is that so? Take a look at the garden, use the finger-method and you will find your finger meeting dry, dry soil a fraction (Continued on Page Eight)

Crisis In Modern Music

THREE ARTISTIC TYPES II. THE TOTALITARIAN IDEAL

By DAVID WILSON

One of the most revealing and powerful scenes in Russian fiction—a literature crowded with powerful revelations—is found in the midst of Tolstoy's Anna Karenina, when Alexey Alexandrovich Karenin's cold, pharisaical heart is transfigured by the illuminating grace of forgiveness. Let me recall the scene. Anna is lying near death from what the prim English translator calls puerperal fever; at her bedside, in addition to the doctor and the midwife, are Karenin and Vronsky, Anna's husband and lover respectively. Karenin, true to his self-righteous, legalistic instincts, had instituted divorce proceedings, as though to banish the painful chaos that distracted his orderly mind and threatened his social position. But coming face to face with life's realities in that suffocating bed-chamber, he realises the futility of his desire for revenge, pride's last resort. He had come to watch her die, to cast the first stone, but instead forgives her; any other action, he knows, would make him guiltier than Anna and Vronsky. This "ecstasy of forgiveness" may seem inexplicable to Western minds, hardened in the mould of Mosaic and Roman law. Human justice is a very dubious instrument of divine justice; only understanding and forgiveness do not leave behind the trailing shadows of guilt. Meditating on this same scene, Nikolai Berdiaeff, the greatest Russian of this century, wrote: "The law which judges sinners is applicable only in everyday cases, while people's hearts are cold and hard. But it is utterly inapplicable and of no value in the extraordinary, catastrophic situations when alone the depths of life are revealed." As in morality, so in art: we must understand what may seem catastrophic and forgive what we do not necessarily approve.

Unless we place ourselves in a frame of mind similar to Karenin's at that crucial moment, we stand little chance of understanding the type of artist who, in contrast to the individual type previously discussed, seeks fulfilment in the collective State—Prince S. N. Trubetskoi's "socialistic consciousness"—or who struggles within the totalitarian web, whether Fascist or Communist. This artistic mentality is alien to our liberal Anglo-Saxon tradition, but looms so ominously in the modern world that it would be folly to ignore it. Ten years ago, when microfilms of Shostakovich symphonies were being flown here and eminent maestri like Koussevitzky and Toscanini fought over first performance rights, the climate was more favourable to the Soviet composer than at present: though it was a climate largely conditioned by the glib parlour-pink and the susceptible fellow-traveller, and therefore not of much consequence. It is now time to take a studied second look at the Soviet composer, the totalitarian ideal, and also to scan his Fascist cousin.

Miguel de Unamuno, that cultural Gibraltar of the Iberian peninsula, at first welcomed the Franco uprising against the leftist Spanish government, and considered it a patriotic necessity; but like the intellectuals that greeted Mussolini's march on Rome, Don Miguel quickly became disillusioned. It was ever thus with Fascism; it begins in grandiose patriotism, but soon the rifle-butt is knocking against every door. And though the leader himself may have the noblest motives, he would have to be of saintly character to withstand the temptations of absolute power. The man, as Dostoyevsky profoundly noted, "disappears forever in the tyrant". Fortunately, Fascism makes few demands upon the artist; it is of its nature an attempt to establish an arbitrary status quo, not a revolutionary religion like Communism in which every aspect of life is pressed into the march of the revolutionary dialectic. Pizzetti, Respighi, and Malipiero were never, to my knowledge, called to the Palazzo Venezia to ex-

BIRDS OF SONG

*The songs I spin from ghostly words
I hear in wind and ocean wail,
I loose again upon the gale,
Like liberated captive birds.*

*Some lift their pinions toward the west,
While others seek a purple land;
And when I toss them from my hand,
I wonder where each bird shall rest.*

*Some perish in the sleet and snows,
And blend with dust in glade and glen;
But I shall hear their songs again,
When blooms the first deep-scented rose.*

—WALDEN GARRATT.

NOCTURNE

*The impatient hand of rain drums on the windows, presto,
taps a staccato scherzo
on the rooftops;
The wind,
night's other hand,
plays its legato nocturne,
largo,
in the muted branches.*

—EDITH LODGE.

TIME FOR FESTIVAL

*Now is the garden deep in June
With white syringa swaying,
With all the morning trees atune
And leaf and shadow playing.*

*The ocean peering through the trees
Has eyes as blue as heaven—
And on the lightest summer breeze
Its azure song is given.*

*The time has come for festival
Without a shadow clinging;
The spirit needs an interval
Of high unclouded singing.*

*The garden, forest and the sea
Confer in praise together—
And who shall have more need than we
This inward-shining weather?*

—ANON.

plain their "bourgeois tendencies", as the modern Russians were called to task by the official press. The atonalists were hounded out of Germany, of course, and Strauss degraded shamefully (with his own eager assistance); the Reich, however, was clearly not an example of classic Fascism. Still there remains the question of why the feeble artistic endeavours of avowed Fascists fall short of the totalitarian ideal set forth by Communist theorists and realised, albeit imperfectly, by their artists.

Anyone who has seen examples of the architecture in official favour during the Mussolini regime cannot fail to be impressed by two startling attributes—its magnificence, and the utter deadness of that magnificence. Fascist Italy was the caput mortuum of Roman glory. As a fish rots first at the head, whatever living intelligence there may have been behind the art inspired by Fascism was stultified and sapped away, leaving only dead splendour at best. When the wild-eyed Spanish general, Millan Astray, screamed "Death to Intelligence!" as Unamuno denounced the methods of the Insurgents as being on a par in barbarity with those of the Republicans, he unknowingly composed the epitaph of Fascism. Whether or not Fascism in its beginnings contained the seeds of potential greatness is an academic point; it has resulted in the death of intelligence and the freezing of creativity. Although important artists have lived and worked in Fascist states, their fame has invariably antedated the regime and their successors appear but pigmies beside them.

Nowhere before in history has the artist been so enchained, willingly or no, into the collective body as in the Soviet Union, though indeed the intellectual history of the past four hundred years has paved the way for the dynamic culmination of Russian Communism. The Russian composer who is in complete harmony with the system undoubtedly feels caught up in a larger entity—an integral body of beliefs—an ideology; and this feeling of community means much to the dedicated Russian. It is what drew Prokofiev back to Russia and spurs on her artists, whose enthusiasm is not daunted by an occasional governmental wrist-slapping. One hundred years ago this feeling was termed Narodnitchestvo—the urge to devote oneself to helping the poorest peasants, the "narod". Lenin and his followers counted heavily on this mystic sublimation to encompass their materialistic ends; they knew that their negative atheism could not inspire positive assent in the Russian character. The Bolshevik revolution, as Berdiaeff said, "has been carried on by negative sentiments: it is a masterpiece of fury". Communism is an inversion of the old Russia, a cruel reaction against cruelty; but it has bitten deeper into the Russian soul than the Tsarist lash. Because it is a religion, it inspires the Russian soul; because it is a religion of hate, it destroys the soul—unless, as Berdiaeff would add, "they overcome the bolshevism that is in their hearts". Here I am reminded of the conversation in Dostoyevsky's Possessed between Piotr Stepanovich and the "madman" Kirilof just before he commits suicide, in which Kirilof, a God-intoxicated atheist who almost symbolises the Russian of today, speaks of his "attribute of divinity"—his independence of God—and with mad logic concludes that he must kill himself to prove his "terrible new freedom". The Russian intelligentsia have asserted their independence of God and have embraced the divinity of Stalin, the incarnation of hate, not of love. The best of them prove their terrible new freedom by committing suicide; the others go on beating their wings in the loveless void until they drop.

Shostakovich proclaimed the mission of the Soviet composer when he parroted the Party Line thus: "There can be no music without ideology." I would reply that there can be no truly great music without belief, which is as far from ideology as the Southern Cross from the North

Hanssens-Hoffman Wedding

Dramatically lovely in a Madrid-styled imported French organdy eyelet gown with a magnificent sweep of train, Lorraine Hanssens was led to the altar of Carmel Mission last Saturday afternoon by her father, Maurice Hanssens of Carmel Valley. Msgr. Michael D. O'Connell performed the service which wed Lorraine to Arthur Hoffman II, son of Mrs. Arthur L. Hoffman, Sr., of Carmel.

Lorraine's gown was offset by a matching cloche and a net fingertip veil and white gauntlets; she carried a cluster of delicate white begonias. Her maid-of-honor, Miss Ramona Kilfoyl of Watsonville, wore a complementary gown of white organdy eyelet with a white poke of matchstick straw; her flowers were Ramona begonias, which were developed and named for her by the bride's father, who owns the Carmel Valley Begonia Gardens.

Best man was William Gibson of Carmel, with ushers Lloyd Campbell, Jim and Jack Sully (all three of Carmel) and Jim Wilcox of San Francisco.

The bride's mother appeared in a costume of Windsor blue topped by a small white straw hat trimmed with pearls and carried an orchid corsage.

A reception for 200 followed the ceremony at Chimneys, the San Antonio Street home of Mrs. Hoffman. Presiding at the punchbowl was the groom's sister, Mrs. Mary Jane Mettler, who came up from Pasadena for the wedding. The couple are now honeymooning at Lake Tahoe, after which they'll make their home in Santa Rosa, where the groom is employed.

Garden Club Activities

Over 100 members and guests were present for last Friday evening's meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club at the Pacific Grove Woman's Club, with president Mrs. C. C. Brockman officiating. Main dish of the evening was a garden discussion panel, presided over by Mrs. Robert Menand and including Mrs. L. E. Gottfried, Mrs. C. J. Ryland, Mrs. Yukio Sumida (co-owner of Cypress Gardens), and Dr. Charles DeLaney of Carmel.

The following were welcomed as new members to the club: Mrs. C. E. Stoddard, Mrs. James Parks, Mrs. J. Maxey, Mrs. Ivan McIndor, Mrs. Ernest Claeon, Mrs. Ralph Murr, Mrs. Cortland Sorenson, and Mrs. Fred Page.

Mrs. Brockman announced that the club will again judge a dozen gardens at Ord Terrace on July 12; judges will be Mrs. C. J. Ryland, Mrs. F. L. Knudsen, and Mr. Roland Haack. A district potluck supper will be held at Santa Cruz Big Trees on July 15, with all members invited to attend.

Many handsome and imaginative flower arrangements were displayed Friday night, and judges had a difficult time picking the winners. Prizes were finally awarded as follows: First prize, an exotic orchid plant, to Mr. and Mrs. Beauford Fisher; second, Masquerade roses, to Mrs. Henry Ragsdale; third, pink calla lilies, to Mrs. Frances Wild. Two choice pelargoniums were presented to Mrs. Roy Barton and Mrs. H. C. Reaves.

Mrs. Beth Rasmussen was responsible for the punch served following the meeting, and a committee consisting of Mrs. H. C. Reaves, Mrs. A. G. Bolm, Mrs. Lee Mackey, and Mrs. Ralph Marr provided homemade cookies.

Next major event on the local club calendar is the gala birthday party and potluck supper, which will be held in conjunction with the regular meeting on July 17.

Lions Hear Mission History

Harry Downie was the speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of Carmel Lions Club at Mission Ranch. Drawing from his long experience with the Mission and its restoration, Downie gave the Lions a sketch of the history of the historic church and the individuals connected with it. He was introduced by Jim Burgess.

Mayor Horace Lyon put in an appearance as a visitor at the meeting, asking the club's support of the planning commission in its opposition to the proposed freeway. The Lions voted unanimously to follow the mayor's and the planner's stand.

Next Tuesday night new officers will be installed for the coming club year as follows: president, Roy N. Hillyer; first vice president, Vince Torras; second vice president, Kenneth Brown; secretary-treasurer, Rex Lincoln; assistant secretary, Fred Stanley. Two new directors were also appointed: Sinclair McClellan and Charles Lunt.

James-Neill Wedding

Sunday afternoon, Clayton B. Neill, Jr., took as his bride Laura Kathleen James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David James of Oakland. The ceremony took place at All Saints' Episcopal Church in San Leandro, with the Rev. Henry T. Praed presiding.

On the Sunday preceding the wedding, Clayton and his bride-to-be received their diplomas from Stanford University: he a master's in business, she a bachelor's degree in education. Clayton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Neill, Sr., of Carmel, was graduated from Sunset and Carmel High, and was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity while at Stanford.

Miss James studied at Michigan State, where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi, before attending Stanford, and plans to do graduate work at the University of California.

The bride's father gave her hand in marriage. She wore ivory taffeta with a yoke of heirloom rose-point lace, full-length sleeves and a fitted bodice. Her flowing tulle overskirt was detailed with a deep pleated tier at the lower edge. A bandeau headpiece picked out with iridescent sequins held her circular face veil, which fell to waist length in the back. She carried a spray of miniature gladioli and bouvardia on a white prayer book.

Myrna Jones, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of greyed aqua taffeta and a headband of white carnations, and carrying a candle adorned with a circlet of carnations. The bridesmaids—Alexandra Jones, another sister, and the bride's cousin Glenna James—also wore aqua taffeta, with pink carnation headbands and circlets for their tapers.

Clayton's younger brother, Gilbert, a Stanford freshman and an ATO pledge, was best man. Ushers were Paul Wineman of San Mateo, a grad school classmate of Clayton's, James Trabucco of San Mateo, an ATO brother, and Lou Frost of Monterey, also an ATO and an engineering grad student at Stanford.

The bride's mother wore a gown of mauve and grey changeable taffeta, and carried pink begonias. Mrs. Neill chose a beige frock of polished cotton with jewel embroidery, and carried brown orchids. Also present was Clayton's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Louis Meyer of Oakdale, who flew up for the occasion from Panama where she and her husband have been stopping in the course of a South American vacation. She wore brown lace, with brown and cream-colored orchids.

The young couple are spending their honeymoon in Hawaii.

Schatzi Herron Wed in East

Saturday afternoon at Grace Church Chantry in New York City, Schatzi Herron, daughter of the Jack C. Herrons of Carmel, was wed to Leonard Fessenden Joy of New York.

Schatzi's younger sister, Gretchen, flew East to act as maid of honor for her sister. Mr. and Mrs. Herron were unable to make the trip themselves. The bride was given in marriage by the groom's uncle, Wright Rundle.

Schatzi, whose name can mean "sweetheart" in German, never looked the part so well. Gowned in ballerina-length white tulle trimmed in Alencon lace, her dark hair was crowned with a garland of Spring flowers from which fell her short, full veil. Gretchen wore a complementary gown of white tulle topped with a brief jacket, and a wreath of yellow roses. Bridesmaid was Constance Spence of Arlington, New Jersey.

Schatzi was graduated from Carmel High in 1951, and recently received her diploma from Pine Manor Junior College in Wellesley, Massachusetts. The bridegroom graduated from Yale, and plans to enter law school at Harvard next Fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Joy of N. Y. City.

The couple are currently honeymooning in Florida. In August, they plan to come to Carmel for a month's visit with Schatzi's parents.

Home from Mills College

Peggy Glaser, daughter of the James Glasers of Pebble Beach, and Elsie Holt, daughter of the Edison Holts of the Valley, are home from Mills College to spend the summer with their families.

Leonards Weekend in P.B.

The Hal Leonards are spending this weekend virtually within hailing distance of their Carmel home. They've taken over the Pebble Beach residence of the T. A. Works (Jr.) for tomorrow and Sunday, while the Works are occupying a summer home on the Russian River.

Summering in Pebble Beach

The Robert Buckner home in Pebble Beach has been taken over for the summer by Mr. and Mrs. Dupuy Warrick of Kansas City and their daughter, Mrs. David Reed. The Buckners are currently making their home in Italy.

Harrington Denies City Negligence In Dixon Suit

Charles R. Barrett, attorney for B. Franklin Dixon in his suit against the city for injuries he allegedly received when he fell over the roots of a pine tree at Mission and Sixth, filed a memorandum Tuesday in superior court, asking that a trial date be fixed. Date will be set Monday or Tuesday and the trial will take place in September or October.

Last week J. E. Harrington of Salinas, attorney for the Hartford Company, the city's insurers, appeared for Mayor Horace Lyon and filed an answer to the summons and complaint served on the mayor two weeks ago.

Harrington conceded that the accident had happened on a city street but denied that the condition, presence of the tree roots, was due to negligence on the part of the city.

Dixon asks $2099.96 for medical and hospital expenses, and $20,000 for other damages.

Barrett is associated with Hudson, Martin, Ferrante and Street.

Musical Art Club Presents Brown And Payette In Concert

The Musical Art Club of the Monterey Peninsula is presenting Nancy Payette, violin-cellist, and Corrick Brown, pianist, in concert Saturday evening, July 27, 8:00 Co'clock, at the Carmel Woman's Club. The program will include:

Ciaccona, Vitali-Silva; Sonata in C Major, Op. 53 (Waldstein) Beethoven—Mr. Corrick Brown.

Sonata pour Violoncello et Piano, Debussy; Sonata for Violoncello and Piano, Op. 6, Samuel Barber — Nancy Payette, cello, Corrick Brown, piano.

tion of an inch down, with the surface barely dampened. And seeds —there is a hide-bound rule about germinating seeds. No matter how many times the garden has been "sprinkled", seeds never derive benefit from this method. Seeds must be kept damp, or else no germination will occur. Take a very gentle flow of water in the hose and see that the soil is dampened at least two inches below the surface. No seed can refuse to sprout if you are diligent and NEVER allow the ground to become dry..

Sprinkling lawns is often a thankless job. It is far better to lay the hose, nozzle off, directly upon the lawn and let slow irrigation do the trick. In this way, if sufficient water is applied, a lawn is apt to go on for ten days with no need of water. It is a happy circumstance if the lawn is planted on a gentle pitch, so the hose can be laid on the high side and water allowed to flow along the entire surface.

I find myself in the role of policeman, inspecting and always urging . . . water in a scientific way, not the old sprinkling method.

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read Sunday, June 28, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. Citations from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, comprising the sermon, will include the following:

The Bible: "Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. . . Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (II Timothy 2:1, 15).

Science and Health: "Hold perpetually this thought,—that it is the spiritual idea, the Holy Ghost and Christ, which enables you to demonstrate, with scientific certainty, the rule of healing, based upon its divine Principle, Love, underlying, overlying, and encompassing all true being (p. 496).

ANNOUNCEMENT

The people of California, through their duly elected representatives, have indicated that they are now in favor of the closing of the banks of this state on Saturdays. A law giving effect to this has been enacted by the California Legislature and approved by the Governor.

Various banking institutions in California have been observing Saturday closing for some time, but Bank of America has continued to operate all its branches on that day, consistently following its long standing policy of providing its customers with Saturday banking service until such time as the people, either directly or through their chosen representatives, determined that a change should be made.

Such a determination now having been reached, this bank accordingly will discontinue its Saturday banking service, effective Saturday, July 11, 1953.

Blithe Spirit Well Done And Lots Of Fun At The Wharf Theatre

By KIPPY STUART

Robert Carson, director of Blithe Spirit, now playing at the Wharf Theater, has accomplished almost the impossible. To project a ghost story in such intimate surrounding as the Wharf Theater, and make it stick, deserved loud praise. Yet Robert Carson has done this, for the illusion of the other-world is with the audience from the start to finish.

The ghost-wife Elvira, played by Peggy Cease, suddenly appears on the stage in authentic spook aura of pale green light shimmering with mystery. Peggy floats around the stage apparently by levitation, in lovely grey ghost garments, separated from the living world in her cool, green medium. Walt Scott, master of lighting, deserves commendation for his achievement in offsetting the ghost from the rest of the cast. Peggy Cease brought to the role of Elvira all the nonsense and mischief with which she is equipped. Her audacious off-sides, spoken in sotto voce, were never fluffed and her lines brought guffaws from the audience.

And here comes Jean Levinson, who usually steals the show. As the giddy-headed Madam Arcati, with her crystal ball and spook trappings, Jean Levinson was perfectly at home. Jean's facial contortions and her romping back and forth across the stage, kept the audience in stitches. Her waggish humor, that is second nature to Jean, kept the fun dancing in her eyes and she carried off the role of Madam Arcati to perfection.

William Hawley as Charles Condomine was cast in the inane role of constantly being solicited by a ghost. His bewilderment and his sly flirtations with his dead wife were ridiculous and farcical, calling upon all the ability of this accomplished actor.

Ann B. Davis played Edith, the fuzzy-headed maid. Usually the part of maid is merely support, but no so with Ann Davis. Her terror at being summoned by the door bell was not only portrayed by her scampering, but by her droll facial expressions.

Mary Buckner, beloved by all who have watched her career at the Wharf Theater, played Ruth, the living wife. Mary is a born "leading lady", and her beauty and excellent diction has made of her a Wharf attraction. In the role of Ruth, Mary Buckner has quite a time competing with the ghost-wife of her husband. The bizarre situation calls for all the dramatic training of this young actress.

Dr. Bradman, played by Richard Moench, and Audy Meader, cast as Mrs. Bradman, are both newcomers to the Wharf Theater. May we see more of their work. Nick LeFeuvre was responsible for the stage settings which are in keeping with the tone of Blithe Spirit. How Ann B. Davis could serve as stage manager and still do her stint as the zany maid, defeats me, but she did.

And how could the Wharf Theater exist without Jane Parker, both make-up artist director and promotion expert?

Daniel Marshall In Organ Recital At All Saints' Church

The organ recital to be given at the All Saints' Episcopal Church in Carmel Sunday at 5:00 o'clock will be played by Daniel Marshall, assistant organist. Dan is a sophomore at Carmel High School whose deep interest in music of the church, coupled with facility in this field, has found in the pipe organ a true medium of expression.

The program is as follows: Prelude and Fugue in E Minor (the Cathedral) and two Chorale Preludes by J. S. Bach: Lord, Have Mercy Upon Me, and Our Father Who Art in Heaven. Following this will be Adagio (from the Occasional Oratorio) by Handel, a modern setting of the Chorale Liebster Jesu by Richard Purvis, and the Intermezzo from the Sixth Symphony for Organ by C. M. Wildor. Concluding the recital Marshall will play Lento and Toccata from Partita by Richard Purvis, a brilliant setting of the 16th Century hymn Christ ist Erstandin.

The recital is free to the public.

Star. Yet there can be music inspired by ideology; it may often come to grief; but between grief and nothing—the characteristic of most music nowadays—I will choose grief (as one of Mr. Faulkner's heroes once said). Ideology is the easy catchword, the artificial idea that delimits creative freedom; at its cold touch aesthetic passion dissolves. Belief is rather an endless, vitalising fountain; the accumulation of significant experience; the sanction for being oneself, as ideology is the mandate to follow the leader. But it would be erroneous to suppose that, merely because the Soviet composer pays homage to ideology, his work must reflect the lifeless dogmas of officialdom. Stravinsky, in his bitterness, seems to have fallen into this error.

Kept from even visiting his native land by his antipathy to the Soviet system, Stravinsky's caustic opinions of his onetime countrymen have only been exceeded by their virulence toward him. This mutual malignancy is the struggle of the Revolution all over again, new festering of old agonies. Like the emigres of the French Revolution, Stravinsky, though his objections are well founded, appears ineffectual, and his remarks utterly unproductive of insight. Lacking even the saving grace of Karenin, he refuses to understand; he counters hate with hate. In Berdiaeff's words, "We must free ourselves from the control of these negative reactions", though every damning indictment may be true. Yet I believe that if we look behind the Soviet ideological frenzy—hysterica passio of its own emptiness—we feel, smouldering in the ashes, the unquenchable heat of the true Russian spirit.

Sweetheart Of The Sheriff's Posse

Carmel High senior Alice Lutes has been selected by the Monterey County Sheriff's Posse as its candidate for Sweetheart of the California Rodeo at Salinas, July 16 to 19.

A pretty filly of 18, Alice was secretary and treasurer of her senior class at the high school and a staff member of the yearbook, El Padre. She's been riding since the age of two, and now has three palfreys of her own. She has participated in several rodeos in Carmel Valley, her home until just recently.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel 7-3881.

Peninsula Newcomers

The Reverend Dr. Harry Clayton Rogers and Mrs. Rogers, whose daughter is Mrs. Alton Walker, have just moved into the Walkers' Pebble Beach home for the duration of the summer. Following the Walkers' return from Europe sometime this September, Dr. and Mrs. Rogers plan to establish their permanent home in either Carmel or Pebble Beach.

Dr. Rogers was until recently pastor of the College City Lakeside Presbyterian Church in San Francisco. Twelve years ago he and his wife moved to the Bay Area from Kansas City, Missouri, to organize the new church and remain as its head.

Stamp Club Meeting

A talk on stamps of Mexico by Col. Harry Henry of Pacific Grove was the highlight of Monday night's meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club at Carmel High School. Col. Henry, along with E. R. Blankenship, was also responsible for the evening's refreshments. Door prize winner was Don Young of Spreckels.

The next meeting will be July 6 at the High School, with a stamp auction as the main course. Mrs. Marjorie Gordon, a new member, will be hostess.

Here Today, Gone Tomorrow

Bud Grant, son of Mrs. B. Charles Grant, arrived home in Carmel last week from Menlo J.C., said a flying "hello" to friends here, and then took off again for a three-months' tour of Europe. Along with Bud is Bob Campbell, son of Mrs. Robinson Campbell of Pebble Beach, who has been at the University of Arizona. The pair plan to visit the British Isles, Holland, Germany, France, Italy and Switzerland, returning home in time for school this Fall.

Padre Trails

At the Padre Trails Camera Club meeting Saturday evening Art in Industry was the subject for competition. Louis J. Stellman's pictures placed first and second in the black and white contest, with Anita Bolling third and fourth. In the color division, George Herzenberg was first, Ed Brooks second, Mr. Herzenberg third and Philip Brown fourth.

Mr. Peter Tarr of Carmel Highlands demonstrated his electronic camera control system to the club members, and Mrs. Therese Whitesides showed 100 color slides which made up the Eighth International Salon from Chicago. Big Sur Park was the meeting place for the annual club barbecue on Sunday afternoon. Many members and their families attended.

Reunions, Farewells at Stilwells

A house with children is a happy house, as can be verified by Mrs. Joseph Stilwell whose Carmel Point home last week overflowed with the exuberant presence of nine grandchildren, plus several visiting bairns and their parents.

The eldest Stilwell daughter, Mrs. Ernest F. Easterbrook (Nancy Stilwell), arrived recently from Washington, D.C., with her three children John, Nancy and Jim to spend the summer with her mother here. Col. Easterbrook is stationed in Korea in command of the 7th Infantry Regiment of the Third Division.

Also here for the summer is Mrs. William R. Cameron (Alison Stilwell) and her children, Cathy and Laurie, who make their home in Arlington, Virginia. Col. Cameron is stationed at the Pentagon. He hopes to be able to visit here towards the end of the summer.

Last week end also brought a visit from Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Watson Stilwell; Ben, the youngest of the Stilwell clan, has just been graduated from McGill University in Montreal, and on the first of next month begins his internship at San Joaquin County Hospital near Stockton.

Houseguests of Mrs. Stilwell earlier this week were Col. and Mrs. Paul L. Jones and their daughters Julia and Janice. Col. Jones was with the late General Stilwell in the Far East, and was at his side during the harrowing march out of Burma during World War II.

The reunion also brought farewells. Lt. Col. and Mrs. William E. Cox (Winifred Stilwell) are leaving this week end for their new home in Burlington, Vermont, along with their four children Teddy, Terry, Deborah and Roger. Col. Cox returned last month from Korea, where he was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service with the Third Infantry Division in the thick of such battles as White Horse and Bloody Angle Hills. Col. Cox has been appointed a professor of military science and tactics at the University of Vermont.

Mrs. Stilwell's oldest son, Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, Jr., is now in Japan, chief of staff of the First Cavalry Division. Col. Stilwell has just completed a tour of duty as commander of the 23rd Infantry Regiment in Korea.

New Pebble Beach Residents

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fenton, formerly of Burlingame, have just moved into their new home in Pebble Beach.

Carmel Reservists at Ord

Fourteen officers and one enlisted man from Carmel are spending these fine June days at that celebrated resort, Fort Ord-by-the-Sea, as part of a 15-day tour of duty with the 6211th Army Reserve Service Unit which began last Monday.

Midshipman Dresser on Cruise

Participating in a two-month training cruise of the Caribbean and South America is Midshipman 3/c Roderick A. Dresser, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Dresser of Carmel. Right now, the squadron of more than 30 ships is in Rio de Janeiro, and Rod—along with the some 3,200 other Naval Academy and NROTC midshipmen and trainees—is enjoying the first day of a week's shore leave in the South American port. After visits to nine ports in South America, the West Indies, Cuba and Panama, the squadron will return to Norfolk, Virginia, on August 5.

Home From School

Gregory Bacon arrived home last week from the Katherine Branson School, of which she is a brand-new graduate; her sister, Elizabeth, has also returned from Whittier College for the summer. Both girls, daughters of Mrs. E. D. Goodrich of Pebble Beach, will remove to Tahoe for the month of July.

Peggy Riker, Rod Dewar Wed

Two Carmel families will be united tomorrow afternoon when Margaret Marie ("Peggy") Riker, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Prosser Riker, becomes the bride of Rod-erick Leroy Dewar, son of the L. L. Dewars. The double-ring ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, with the Rev. Bernard Lovgren officiating.

"Here comes the bride" will very shortly become "bon voyage", as Peggy and Rod will be flying from San Francisco on June 30 for a three-months' tour of Europe. Their itinerary includes London, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Italy, with a return trip through the Riviera and Brittany. Preparations for the wedding and the trip, in addition to numerous parties and showers, have kept the Riker home in a happy tizzy of excitement since Peggy's arrival last week from San Francisco.

For her wedding tomorrow, Peggy will wear a full-skirted gown of white nylon tulle with a deep portrait neckline and a long-sleeved nylon embroidery top. Medallions of the same embroidery form inserts in the skirt. Her fingertip veil will fall from an embroidered Juliet cap, and she will carry a bouquet of white stephanotis, orchids and carnations. Borrowed and blue will be the frilly garter belonging to Becky Westover; old will be the lace handkerchief from Mrs. Arthur Plaxton which the bride will have for the ceremony. New could cover just about anything else, according to Peggy.

Jan Armstrong of San Francisco will be Peggy's maid-of-honor, with Betty Plaxton of Carmel and Alice Turner of San Francisco as bridesmaids. They will wear ballerina-length gowns of sheer silk in a Byzantine blue flecked with white and carry carnations backed with ruffs of white tulle.

Mrs. Riker has chosen a white-figured cocoa silk sheath with matching jacket and shoes and a small Spring hat; she will carry a cluster of white orchids.

Mrs. Dewar has chosen a two-piece ensemble of iridescent taffeta, aqua shot with golden-brown undertones, with which she will wear cocoa brown accessories and hat. Her flowers will be brown orchids.

Best man will be Lou Frost of Monterey, with ushers Murray Wight of Carmel and Jerry Wilkerson.

Peggy and Rod have been schoolmates ever since they were kids at Sunset; both were graduated from Carmel High. Peggy attended Vassar, graduating a Phi Beta Kappa in 1952. Since that time she has lived and worked in San Francisco. Rod has completed his first year of law school at Stanford, and will return there to complete his course next year. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. On their return from Europe, Peggy and Rod will make their home in Palo Alto.

About 250 guests have been invited to the reception at Highlands Inn which will follow the wedding tomorrow evening. Joining the reception line will be the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dewar and Mrs. Marie Anderson of Oakland.

In Seattle Sailing Regatta

Morley Horder arrived in Seattle early this week for a long-anticipated visit with his mother, Mrs. A. Morley Horder, then to join his brother, Garrett, aboard the later's Dragon-class yacht to participate in the Pacific Northwest International Sailing Regatta, which runs from Seattle through the San Juan Islands to Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Horder (Sheila McLaglen) and daughters Melissa and Hilary accompanied Morley as far as Sau-salito, there to spend a pleasant four-day weekend, returning to their Carmel Woods home Tuesday. Morley expects to be back around the first of next month.

The very picture of the tremulous bride, Mary McElroy submits to the steady touch of her mother, Mrs. Ruth Marion McElroy, while her sister-in-law Mrs. George McElroy as matron-of-honor administers final adjustments to the bridal headgear.

An estimated 300 guests gathered in the sun-flooded garden of Carmel Mission last Saturday morning to see Mary wed to Lt. Howard Cameron Williams, USA. The 11:00 service was read by Msgr. Michael O'Connell. Noel Sullivan held forth at the organ, with additional music being supplied by violinist James Hartmann and Tenor James Gordon.

Mary was led to the altar by her twin brother, George. Her attendants, in addition to the matron-of-honor, were her sister Mrs. Robert Fry (Ann McElroy), Mrs. Robert Ewart, and Miss Leigh McKenney, with Ruthie Fry as flower girl. Standing up with the groom was his cousin, Bill McNinis; ushers were Basil Allaire, Roydon Beardsall of Alturas, and Fred Davis of Reno.

Mary's gown was ballerina-length white tulle, the bodice fashioned of lace with a bateau neckline and three-quarter sleeves; a stiffened coronet of the same lace formed her headpiece. Her attendants wore short-sleeved ballerina frocks of white organdy with peter pan collars.

The bride's mother, according to her own description, "was resplendent in last year's blue and white silk print dress with a pastel applique of tomato soup."

The McElroy garden was the scene of the large reception which followed the wedding. Standing with the newly-wed pair in the reception line, in addition to Mrs. McElroy, were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams of Reno.

Lt. Williams was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point in 1951, and recently returned from service in Korea. He and Mary are now enjoying two weeks at Lake Tahoe before proceeding on a leisurely cross-country drive to Fort Bragg, North Carolina, where he will be stationed.

Udike-Feeney Nuptials Tomorrow

Tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock, Florence June Udike will be married to Walter James Feeney, Jr. at Carmel Mission. Father James Monohan of Bellarmine will celebrate the nuptial mass.

The bride, a graduate of Carmel High and a former MPC student, will be given in marriage by her father, Benjamin Udike of Carmel. Donna Douglas will be her maid of honor, while her brother, Bobby Udike, will serve as best man for the groom. The benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Feeney of Santa Cruz.

A reception will be held following the wedding at the Carmel Woman's Club. Following a short honeymoon, the couple will return to Carmel to establish their home.

Causerie Francaise Concert

This evening La Causerie Francaise will present a program of French piano music, both modern and ancient, performed by Mme. Marjorie Wurzmann, an accomplished concert pianist, in conjunction with the regular meeting of the Peninsula's French conversation society.

The meeting and Mme. Wurzmann's recital will take place at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel home of Henry Dickinson on Isabella Street and The Point. All members of Causerie Francaise and their friends are invited.

Recreation Notes

On Tuesday afternoon at the Sunset School library, interpretive dancing classes are available for girls in the 8-12 age group and for adult women. The classes are under the direction of Helen Morgenroth, an experienced dancing instructor with both children and adult groups. The 8-12 group will meet from 2-4 p.m., and the adults from 3-4 p.m.

Mrs. Gerber welcomes all boys and girls at the skilled arts and crafts sessions at room 11, Sunset, and in the rec room at Woods School. Equipment for the arts and crafts sessions is available at the schools and participants need have only the desire to make something with their hands. The Sunset class meets from 1-2:30 p.m., and the Woods class convenes at 1:45 and closes at 4:00 o'clock.

The Sunset Cafeteria is the site for a happy folk dancing session each Monday night from 7:30 to 9:30. Under the expert guidance of Fred Decker, dancers acquire a variety of folk dancing skills and have lots of fun in the process. Get the gang together and enjoy the fun on Monday night.

On Monday and Wednesday night, basketball players have the run of the high school gym for scrimmage sessions and informal games. Boys in all age groups can find lots of activity in these meetings and competition on all levels is available. The gym is open at 7:30 and closes at 9:30.

Badminton holds sway on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday nights. Badminton participants must furnish their own shoes, towels, and birds, but the rackets are furnished by the recreation department.

fire in the last frame as first-baseman Bill Hansen powered a bases-loaded homer over the right field fence to bring home another Warrior victory. The outclassed Roberts club didn't belong on the same field with the professional Ord team but by superior hustle they nearly upset the Warriors. . . . Carmel's 12-15 year old baseball players are getting a good workout each afternoon under the tutelage of Art Devlin, a protege of the great Ty Cobb. Art is grooming the sprouts for league action which will start next week. . . . The Monterey Merchants have made a very creditable showing against the best semi-pro clubs available and have a real good hustling ball club. The Merchants are at home this Sunday, hosting the always-potent Watsonville Pippins in a Mission League fray. . . . Youth Center boys and girls interested in softball are taking a fling at the sport on Tuesday evenings at Sunset Field. . . . Ky Miyamoto and his Monterey Hardware softball team will appear at Sunset Field in some Saturday night exhibition games in the near future. Some of the good clubs in the San Jose area will make the trek to Carmel to provide opposition for the classy Hardware team. After the club has been firmed up a bit, the Carmel Pine Cone aggregation will also host some of the better class-A clubs.

WAYFARER SUMMER SCHOOL

The Church School of the Church of the Wayfarer is now beginning its summer schedule. There are classes for children two, three, four and five years old at both 9:15 and 10:45 o'clock in the morning. Children who are in the first through sixth grades will attend classes at 10:45 o'clock, while those who have been in the seventh and eighth grades have a session at 9:15 o'clock.

A special curriculum has been arranged for the summer term, including special instruction in the Bible and the life of Jesus, and children may be enrolled at any time.

Janet Huffman Weds

A balmy June evening, a church glowing with lights and candles and flowers, a rainbow array of pastel colors, formed the setting Tuesday when Janet Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Huffman of Carmel Valley, became the bride of Sgt. Rene Marfull.

The formal ceremony took place at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday at the First Baptist Church in New Monterey. Janet was led to the altar by her father, and the service was performed by Chaplain Blair of Fort Ord.

The bride's gown was of white satin, fashioned with a long-sleeved bodice of lace and with Chantilly lace insets at the front and down the back of the sweeping circle train. Her fingertip veil of illusion net trimmed with lace was held by a circlet of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade of white carnations, stephanotis, lily-of-the-valley and purple-throated orchids.

Janet's maid-of-honor was Lois Nilssen of San Mateo, who wore lavender taffeta with a matching cascade of carnations. Bridesmaids were Janet McFall of Carmel, Alene Decker of Monterey, Lucia Rodin of Big Bear, Jeannie Colvin of Redwood City, Nancy Bentley of Seaside, and Frances McLain of Stockton. They were gowned in taffeta, two in yellow, two in powder blue, and two in pale green, each with a cascade of carnations matching her dress. The little flower girl, Laurel Heath of Pacific Grove, wore a miniature version of the bridesmaids' gowns in pink taffeta and carried pink carnations.

Best man was Lee Fields of Monterey. Among the ushers were the bride's brother, Ronald Huffman, and two cousins, Ralph Paulin and Leslie Vincent. Other ushers were Cliff Wilson of the Navy Line School, Harold Winters of Fort Ord, and Jim Myers of Pacific Grove.

The bride's mother appeared in a navy blue frock with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of white cymbidium and pink roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Mary Marfull of Brooklyn, came across country for the ceremony, accompanied by her niece, Anita Roldau; Mrs. Marfull wore a gown of iridescent lavender taffeta, and carried a corsage of orchids in a matching shade.

Janet attended Sunset School and graduated from Carmel High in 1952. After spending a semester at Westmont College in Santa Barbara, she returned to the Peninsula to stay with her family and work here. Her new husband is a native of Brooklyn, and is stationed at Fort Ord. Following his discharge from the Army next month, he and Janet will make their home in Los Angeles, where he plans to attend the National Trade School.

Bill Godwin Home on Leave

Home in Carmel from Langley Air Force Base in Virginia to spend the better part of a 30-day leave is Bill Godwin, son of the Harrison Godwins. Right now he's making the most of the fine weather and spending much of his time on the beach and visiting with old friends. On the fifth of next month he reports to Reno, for reassignment to Korea.

Housewarming For Kvenilds

The nonplussed but thoroughly delighted objects of a surprise housewarming Saturday night were the Robert Kvenilds, who recently moved into their new post-adobe home in the Mission Tract. The surprise was largely engineered by Mrs. Paul Porter and Mrs. Robert McGinnis: on the pretext of bringing a friend to see the new house, Mrs. Porter made certain the Kvenilds would be home and prepared to receive company. The "friend", however, turned out to be 40 or more of the Kvenilds' acquaintances, laden with all the components of a lavish potluck supper and cocktail party. In addition, the party presented the Kvenilds with a set of porch furniture to enhance their outdoor patio.

Grays Welcome Korean Boy

Kyung-Ho Pang was welcomed to America at a dinner given on Monday evening by Dr. and Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray. The brother of Charles E. Pang, an instructor in the Army Language School, he had been brought from Pusan, Korea, by the Grays, and will make his home in Carmel while going to school. Invited to meet him were Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Swim, with whom he will make his home. Also present were the Swim children, Marilyn, Roddie, and Gay, as well as Stephen and Stanton Gray.

Kyung-Ho, who is to go by the name of Wesley, is the youngest son of the Rev. and Mrs. Hoon Pang, formerly of the Central Methodist Church in Seoul. His mother has lived in Pusan since the abduction of his father by the Communists nearly three years ago.

The dinner also marked the 18th wedding anniversary of the Swims.

Out of Navy, Into Job

Following his discharge from the Navy this month, Paul Warner spent a week here at home with his parents, Capt. and Mrs. S. H. Warner (USN Ret.). Then Paul was off to San Francisco, where in no time he found himself with a job at radio station KGO, and he's now settled in the Bay Area until next January, when he plans to return to Stanford to complete the two semesters remaining before he can take his bachelor's degree.

Prior to his discharge, Paul (whose rate was Journalist, 3/c) was stationed at Sugi Naval Air Force Base in Japan. He majored in journalism at Stanford, and one of his plays was selected for top awards by the Radio and Television Institute there and produced over KGO. In his senior year at Carmel High he was editor of the School Edition of the Carmel Pine Cone.

Dick Sumner Back From Korea

Following a full and satisfying month's leave (mostly spent fishing and basking on the beach with the "old gang"), Marine Sergeant Dick Sumner left for San Diego Monday where he will bid until his discharge in January. The long-awaited reunion with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sumner, was the happy ending to a year's service in Korea with A Company, 1st Amphibian Tractor Battalion. A Carmel High graduate, Dick plans to return to Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo to finish college after his discharge.
